ENGLISH TEST

45 Minutes—75 Questions

DIRECTIONS: In the passages that follow, some words and phrases are underlined and numbered. In the answer column, you will find alternatives for the words and phrases that are underlined. Choose the alternative that you think is best, and fill in the corresponding bubble on your answer sheet. If you think that the original version is best, choose “NO CHANGE,” which will always be either answer choice A or F. You will also find questions about a particular section of the passage, or about the entire passage. These questions will be identified either by an underlined portion or by a number in a box. Look for the answer that clearly expresses the idea, is consistent with the style and tone of the passage, and makes the correct use of standard written English. Read the passage through once before answering the questions. For some questions, you should read beyond the indicated portion before you answer.

PASSAGE I

Hair-raising Problems

Why is it that we are so completely obsessive with the hair on our heads? Millions of dollars are spent each year on cutting hair, lengthening hair, bleaching hair, straightening hair, curling hair, highlighting hair, and even growing hair; whatever you can do to hair, someone is willing to pay the money to do it. Natural redheads long for to be brunettes and dishwater blondes dream of shiny golden tresses. Both men and women cringe at the sight of each gray hair, so teenagers enjoy weekly experiments with magenta dyes, spikes, and tangerine streaks.

All of these thoughts cross my mind as I examine the result of my most recent hair adventure. As a mature woman watching the gray hairs mixing in rapidly with my 6

natural brunette tones, I decided over a year ago, to 7

approach my stylist with the idea of highlights. Having seen many of my peers go this route, I figured that highlighting was for to be the answer to my reluctance to 8

look my age.

[1] The monthly highlighting went well: excepting for those times when my hair turned out a little too subdued, making me look partially gray instead of brunette. [2] I suffered through it remarkably well, saying to myself,

9

I’ve enjoyed my year of highlights, so much so that I bravely approached Donna, my stylist, two months ago

and proclaimed that I was done with wimpy highlighting and ready to go blonde. [4] The result was not quite what I expected, but I resolved to live with it! [11] [5] Donna was surprised at my suggestion, but quickly began sharing my unbridled enthusiasm as she gathers the appropriate

chemicals and concoctions that would soon transform me.

Three months later, I find myself seesawing between tears and laughter as I attempt to cover up a patch of nearly bald scalp on the top of my head. For someone who has long been fanatical about the appearance of her hair, this absence of hair has proven to be quite a challenge to my ego and self-confidence. I’ve always enjoyed styling

my hair, and suddenly, I have nothing to style.

Each time I begin to experience a new pang of disgust and despair over this new hair anomaly, I once again ask myself why we are so obsessed with the hair on our heads. The answer always comes to me in a flash, in a simple two-word phrase: pure vanity. Soon after this realization, I cease my crying. [14]

14. The writer is considering deleting the preceding sentence. If the sentence was deleted, the essay would primarily lose:
- F. a summary of the essay.
 - G. the narrator's ability to put her situation into perspective.
 - H. a stylistic link to the essay's introduction.
 - J. an understanding of the author's purpose in writing the essay.

Question 15 asks about the preceding passage as a whole.

15. Suppose the writer had chosen to write a how-to article for people wanting to change their hair color. Would this essay fulfill the writer's goal?
- A. Yes, because the author's approach to changing her own hair color would ease the anxiety of others wishing to do the same.
 - B. Yes, because this essay emphasizes the universality of people changing their hairstyles and hair color.
 - C. No, because this article only deals with the narrator's own experimentation with her hair and does not provide steps for others to do the same.
 - D. No, because the essay discourages people from changing their hair color.

PASSAGE IIA Modern Blacksmith

You will probably never find his name in a history book, but to this day, Walker Lee continues to contribute to America heritage. Walker Lee is an old-fashioned, modern-day blacksmith who still practices the fine art of 17 manipulating metal over a hot fire. In his words,

"Blacksmithing is no dying art!"

Walker Lee had began his career in hand-forged ironwork at the age of 30. The idea of creating an object out of iron, a most intractable material, appealed to him.

He started on this new venture by collecting and reading every book he could find that described the process of blacksmithing: its history, its practical and decorative uses, and the equipment needed to establish and outfit his own smithy. During the course of his research, Lee discovered a tool necessary for the success of any blacksmith: the anvil, a heavy block of iron or steel upon which the blacksmith hammered and shaped the malleable metal.

Lee bought his first anvil from 84-year-old Hurley Alford Templeton of Philadelphia, lugging it home to Michigan in the back of a 4-H county bus. This anvil weighed 100 pounds, about the minimum size Walker Lee needed to get started in his craft.

Lee's first anvil cost him $100, and four months later, he paid $75 for an additional implement—a vice—from Cornell University in New York. This important tool also made its way back to Michigan in the back of Lee's 4-H bus.

Once Lee obtained his first portable forge, he was ready to build his blacksmith shop, commonly referred to as a “smithy.” In the interest of economy, he constructed this shop out of inexpensive oak planks and tarpaper. It was a crude little shack but stood for only nine years. Lee, who by then was completely hooked on blacksmithing, replaced his first shop with a finer one made of more expensive wood; this shop also had glass windows, a definite improvement over Lee’s original “smithy.”

[1] The very first object Lee forged was a long, pointed Hudson Bay dagger.
 [2] Many people refer to this type of knife as a “dag.”
 [3] As he recalls that event he says, “From the minute
 I first saw the thing take shape, I was hooked . . . still am.
 There’s an element of magic in it to me. You heat it up and pound it with a hammer and it goes where you want it to go.” [4] Years later at a family event Lee, discovered that his Italian ancestors were accomplished coppersmiths.
 [5] During the gathering, Lee’s great uncle Johnny was proclaiming that Lee’s propensity for blacksmithing was “in the blood” as he happily presented Lee with a new 125-pound anvil. [29]

24. Given that all of the choices are true, which one would most effectively introduce the subject of this paragraph?

F. NO CHANGE

G. Obtaining a portable forge for the shop proved to be Lee’s biggest challenge.

H. Blacksmith shops can be difficult to construct, but the most challenging task is moving the necessary equipment into it.

J. A blacksmith’s forge requires some type of blower in order to keep the fire hot enough to bend the steel.

Scorpion Scare

As my sister begins by telling me about the ³¹ scorpion in her bed that stung her as she slumbered, I could feel my eyes popping out of my head ³²
 and my jaw dropping to the floor. She seemed so calm telling me this story, and all I could think about was ³³
how that she's lucky to be alive. Diana's terrifying story ³⁴ continued, detailing how her husband threw back the bed covers, began beating the dreaded thing with a broom, and then quickly flushed it down the toilet. Only later did they ³⁵ learn that the corpse should have been kept for identification purposes. Some Arizonan scorpions are deadlier than others, and it is important to know which ³⁶
 species is responsible for a given attack.

My sister characteristically chose not to seek medical treatment as her upper arm first swelled, then ached with pain, and finally became numb and useless. ³⁷
 As her condition worsened, she searched the Internet for general information, discovering time and again that species identification is important in administering proper care to the sting victim.

 best links the preceding sentence with the rest of the paragraph?
 A. You could say that Diana is afraid of hospitals,
 doctors, and nurses.
 B. Most scorpion bites should be examined by a medical professional.
 C. My sister's physician had treated many scorpion bites.
 D. Symptoms of a scorpion sting can vary from one person to another.

Scorpions will sting anyone they accidentally encounter as they crawl inadvertently into human habitats. Most ³⁸ problems occur at construction sites where the scorpions natural homes have been upset and uprooted by ³⁹ bulldozers and dump trucks. Of the ninety scorpion ⁴⁰ species native to the United States, 30 percent live in Arizona. ⁴⁰ Unfortunately, one of those species is the Bark Scorpion, just about the only species whose venom is ⁴¹ considered truly dangerous and often fatal to humans.

My sister and her husband just moved into a new home a year ago, and dozens of homes are still being built all around them. This, indeed, is a perfect explanation for the presence of a scorpion in their bedclothes. Scorpions hide during the day and search for food and water at night. Arizonans will tell you that it's a good idea to refrain from going barefoot in the dark, both outside and inside. ⁴²

Checking your shoes and clothes before putting them on wouldn't hurt, either, particularly if you know you're in an area where scorpions have been found. Wherever there is one scorpion, there are probably dozens more that can be easily detected with a black light at night when they're on the move.

[1] If a scorpion happens to sting you, please don't ⁴³ follow my sister's example. [2] All medical facilities in Arizona have antivenin on hand. [3] Seek medical

F. adds essential information to the discussion of Arizona.
G. is not particularly necessary to the impact of the essay.
H. supports the reference to the scorpions' behavior.

- F. Where it is now.
 - G. Before sentence 1.
 - H. After sentence 3.
 - J. Omit it; it is not relevant to the paragraph.

Question 45 asks about the preceding passage as a whole.

45. Suppose the writer had intended to write a medical column that would offer professional advice on the treatment of scorpion stings. Would this essay successfully fulfill this goal?
- A. Yes, because this essay describes the steps that need to be taken if a person is stung by a scorpion.
 - B. Yes, because it is clear in the essay that the writer possesses professional knowledge on the topic of scorpion stings.
 - C. No, because the writer is describing only one personal incident about a scorpion sting and is offering personal, not professional, advice.
 - D. No, because there are too many species of scorpions to allow a short essay to provide professional advice on the treatment of scorpion stings.

PASSAGE IV

Unfulfilled Promises

If you have ever entered a contest of any sort—you are well aware of the legal requirements, exclusions, and disclaimers that always accompany the contest's entry form. Many laws today regulate a contest sponsor's responsibilities to the entrants, and courts are filled with lawsuits asserting with non-compliance on both sides. However, this was not always the case.

In 1896, a contest motivated a Norwegian immigrant, Helga Estby, to travel nearly 3,500 miles on foot from the state of Washington to New York City. Unfortunately, as is still sometimes true, Helga won the competition mysteriously absent.

[1] Helga had been living on her farm with her husband ⁵¹
 and nine children in Spokane, Washington, when she read of a $10,000 prize being offered to a woman who was willing to walk across the country. [2] Because the Estby farm was facing foreclosure, Helga decided that walking across the country in a bicycle skirt for that kind of money was a small price to pay for a greater rewarding. [3] At the ⁵²

time, this style of skirt was considered to be inappropriate because it revealed the female ankle. [4] The only requirement, from all accounts, was that she wear a modern, newfangled bicycle skirt as she traveled. [53]

So, in May of 1896, Helga and her 18-year-old daughter, Clara, had set off on their long journey.
⁵⁴

Helga carried a revolver and a spray gun containing red ⁵⁵
pepper for protection. Presumably, Helga and Clara found
⁵⁶
 food and shelter along the way, and they arrived in New York City in December, seven months after their departure. The contest sponsors, however, were to be ⁵⁶
found nowhere.
⁵⁶

This story of bravery and persistence
⁵⁷
had therefore been kept a secret for nearly a century, primarily because Helga's seven-month absence from the farm wreaked havoc on her family. Two of her children died of diphtheria while she was gone. Even worse, her husband had sequestered the surviving children in an unheated shed, thinking that this was the only way to keep them from being infected with the disease. Since the contest sponsor failed to award Helga the money, the Estbys ended up losing the farm; her expedition had been a disaster.

At the time, Helga's trip was considered an embarrassment by the Norwegian-American community and was kept utterly quiet. After Helga's death, her own children burned the hundreds of pages Helga had written through the years, leaving only a small scrapbook of newspaper clippings and very few details of Helga's life or her ill-fated trip. Looking back 100 years, one can only marvel at the boldness and bravery that must have energized Helga Estby to make that journey on foot across the country in an effort to save her family farm. ⁵⁸ 60

 A. NO CHANGE
 B. to win $10,000.
 C. in an effort to save her children from diphtheria.
 D. to help her daughter Clara gain experience.

Question 60 asks about the preceding passage as a whole.

60. At this point, the writer is considering adding the following sentence:
- In 1984, Helga's great-great-grandson wrote a story about his ancestor for a history assignment.
- Should the writer make this addition here?
- F. Yes, because it links the ending of the essay to its introduction.
 G. Yes, because this information is highly relevant to the rest of the essay.
 H. No, because this story might not focus on Helga's farm.
 J. No, because this information introduces a new subtopic of the essay.

PASSAGE V

The following paragraphs may or may not be in the most logical order. You may be asked questions about the logical order of the paragraphs, as well as where to place sentences logically within any given paragraph.

Jet Lag

Traveling across time zones particularly⁶¹ via airplane, can be very disconcerting to the human body, both physically and mentally. When you “gain” or “lose” time going from Point A to Point B, a condition (desynchronosis)⁶² likely affects you in some form. Jet lag is medically considered a sleeping disorder, although it is normally a temporary condition and not as serious⁶³ as other sleeping dysfunctions.

[64] The term “circadian” originates from the Latin circa, meaning “about,” and diem or “day.” Circadian rhythms refer to a variety of daily bodily functions such as temperature changes, sleep patterns, and digestive functions. Normally, the body operates on a 24-hour time period that coincides with the earth’s 24-hour cycle of night and day. The human body generally falls into a routine of sleeping and waking; that is, regular⁶⁵ changes in body temperature, breathing, and digestion take place. In addition,⁶⁶ most who’s inner clocks⁶⁷ cause more sleepiness from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. and again from 3:00 a.m. to 5:00 a.m. Body temperature usually rises as the day goes on, quickly drops around midnight, and then begins the cycle of rising again just before 6:00 a.m. Since these 68

 changes occur on a twenty-four-hour cycle, so abrupt time zone changes can understandably upset the body's highly well-tuned in system of regulation.

69

[3]

Some symptoms of jet lag include excessive daytime sleepiness or some level of insomnia at night, changes in appetite and/or digestion, moodiness, and difficulty concentrating. Often, after traveling on a plane for 70
long periods, people will also experience headaches, dry 70
 sinuses, earaches, and bloating. However, these symptoms are more likely being attributable to the conditions of the 71

airplane cabin, which has a very dry pressurized, 72
 atmosphere, and are not symptomatic of jet lag.

[4]

[1] There are steps that can be taken to alleviate the effects of jet lag, primarily as preventive measures.

[2] First, it might be helpful to slightly alter your sleeping schedule for several days before your trip. [3] If you are 73
going east, for example, go to bed one hour earlier and rise 73
 the next day an hour earlier so that you will be somewhat more acclimated to the new time zone. [4] Regulating your exposure to light can also be helpful, since light and darkness serve as triggers to the brain. [5] Before traveling west, expose yourself to evening light and avoid early morning light for several days as a way of simulating the new time zone you're headed toward. [6] Some say it takes about one day for every hour of time zone change to completely adjust to the new time zone. [7] Unfortunately for many, that formula often coincides precisely with the return trip. [8] Avoiding caffeine and alcohol may also aid your body in adjusting to its new environment. [74]
